

DEMOCRATS, ATTENTION!

The Democrats of Iron county are hereby called to meet in mass convention at the court house in Ironton, on Saturday, May 5th, 1894; to elect delegates to the State convention at Kansas City Missouri.

ELI D. AKE, Chairman.

W. J. RUSSELL, SECT.

NOTWITHSTANDING the Republic's very entertaining acrobatic performances on the financial tight-rope, the Democracy of this State regard it as a gold standard paper.

ADMITTING the plea of Mr. Breckinridge to be true, that "most men are as bad as he is," still he must pay the penalty for being found out. It were better to do this gracefully, without creating a scene.

CHARLESTON Democrat: "Too much care cannot be taken to avoid sending to the national legislature, men who homes are in the south or west, but whose voices and votes, whose silence and dodging, are of and for the northeast."

MR. SETH W. COBB thinks that "harmony and good fellowship are necessary to secure success to the party in the State." We would suggest that Mr. Cobb join the Democratic party as a step towards securing the harmony of which he speaks.

WHEN a man of the intellect of Col. Ingersoll says he is a Protectionist, his sincerity may be questioned; but when the Bonne Terre Democrat-Register man proclaims himself a Protectionist, nobody doubts it. It is merely a question of brain—or of thrift.

WE take great pleasure in correcting our statement of two weeks ago that U. S. Hall voted against the seigniorage bill. The mistake was not ours; the clerks of the House substituted the name of our congressman for his colleague from Minnesota, and hence got him in the wrong pew. Our Hall is all right. We wish we could say as much for more of our public men.

PIEDMONT Banner: "Judge James D. Fox is in our county this week making an active canvass in his race for congress. Judge Fox is a man in every way well fitted for such a position and no man in the district could be selected who would more triumphantly bear Democracy's banner. He is young, able, social, magnetic. In this county he has hosts of friends and numbers are being added daily. He is now actively in the race and wants everybody to know it. While down this time he will visit different sections of this county and will be pleased to meet as many of our citizens as possible."

WE trust that the Democratic State Convention will find something better to do than to frame resolutions denouncing President Cleveland in a wholesale and indiscriminate fashion.—Hermann Ledger.

We would respectfully call the attention of Col. Williams to the fact that the framing of any resolution by the State Convention in which old-fashioned Jeffersonian Democracy is enunciated, will be denouncing President Cleveland in the most wholesale, indiscriminate and miscellaneous manner. No one of the many very able speeches that Col. Williams made in the campaigns of '90 and '92 could be repeated without being open to the same objection.

THAT $50,000 color press of the Chicago Inter-Ocean is being utilized in a unique and instructive manner by that great newspaper. It is being used to print a "Little Paper for Little People" with four pages in colors, and beginning with Sunday, April 29th, this paper will contain the first installment of a Children's story, written especially for it by a Chicago newspaper man, Sam Clover. A unique feature of this story is that it is to be named by Chicago school children after reading.

This with the "Musical Supplement," a new art feature, makes The Sunday Inter-Ocean a most interesting and welcome visitor for every member of the family.

ONE of the most disheartening features of present financial conditions is the fact that the prosperity of the country is entirely in the hands of the money power. It can make money easy or tight, as its interests demand. It can make times good or bad, as it deems most expedient. Should the McKinley bill be retained, times will likely become easier—not because there is anything in the conditions of trade to make them so, but because better times will justify the course of Mr. Hill and his Republican allies in smothering Tariff Reform, and aid the cuckoos who have forced upon us the single gold standard. This course will tend to divert the attention of the people from the evils of our present vicious trade and financial system, and act as an anodyne. When the thimble-rig man is most successful, he lets a greeny or two win ten dollars, but the game is at all times in his own hands, and the surplus cash of the crowd eventually finds its home in his pocket. We may expect an exhibition of this character on a large scale in the next year.

WE have always been under the impression that Ake, of the Ironton Register, was a peculiarly composed individual, but we must confess our surprise at some sentiments expressed in his last week's issue. He writes in substance about like this: "We have always regarded Col. Rob't G. Ingersoll as a sincere man, and when he has fired his logic across the centuries at Moses we have usually been pretty well satisfied with the sincerity of his aim, but when he attempts to dabble in politics, he devotes himself to matters nearer home and we begin to doubt his sincerity." Our surprise arises from the fact that we know Uncle Eli to be getting on the shady side of life and we wonder at his yet being so hardened as to place politics nearer to his soul than religion.—Democrat-Register.

If being on the shady side of life has anything to do with Uncle Eli's articles, we would suggest that the Democrat-Register man change sides as soon as possible. The readers of his paper would enjoy the change we have no doubt.—Van Buren Local.

Silver in the Platform.

When the Republic takes to double-loads, Democrats in Missouri begin to sniff the breeze and watch the woodpile for evidence of the concealed darky who is sure to appear sooner or later. Like the temperance man who was "in favor of a prohibitory law, but agin its enforcement," the Republic is in favor of silver, but 'agin its use as a money metal. It says, "The United States find themselves under a gold standard system with a large stock of silver dollars which no act of theirs can restore to a full money value at a ratio of 16 to 1." We would call the attention of the Republic to the fact that the genuine bimetalist does not intend to restore the 16 to 1 dollar to a full money value on the gold basis. That by treating that dollar as a dollar of final payment, the bullion value of the two metals will be brought as near together as they were in '73. Bimetalists demand that when a liability of this government is made payable in coin, silver and gold, in equal parts, should be used in settling the account. The power to discriminate against silver by means of the gold contract should be curtailed and the banker be taught that, after all, he is only a citizen of the United States, with exactly the same rights as other citizens, and must obey the law as they do. The bimetalist believes that, should this country be placed upon a silver basis, gold would be congested in other parts of the world and its value thereby depreciated, while silver would, by being restored to its use as a money metal, rapidly appreciate, so that the double standard would be reached with little friction. The Republic talks glibly about broken contracts, prostrated confidence, and exiled enterprise, when justice threatens to overtake the creditor classes; but it is chary of its words in condemnation of the crimes of '73 and '93, where by our people's debt was doubled. A crime was committed when silver was demonetized; let us make reparation without delay by at once placing it in the position it occupied before Lombard street got in its fine work. Then, from that standpoint, we can begin to legislate anew. Mexico and Guatemala pay the same dollar they contracted to pay twenty years ago, and wisely refuse to pay one of a greater value than that which their contracts call for; and the United States should see to it that they are not bulldozed into a different policy. Let the Democracy of this State endorse the 16 to 1 dollar. There is no need to have every silver dollar now in circulation recoinced in an effort to get a silver coinage on the present depreciating gold basis. The attempt to do so would make silver agitation ridiculous. Let the State convention take definite action and by all means let it state its convictions in regard to the ratio. The Democracy of this state is not arboreal in its habits. It knows what it wants, and will not be put off, like a child, with empty promises. The Free Coinage that is to come "some sweet day by and by" is not the kind it cares for. It intends to go to work in earnest and at once to bring about practical silver legislation, meantime keeping an eye on the bunco-steerer. Let the State Convention endorse the ratio of 16 to 1, and strike the Wall street contingent a blow full in the face!

The Favored Classes' Bete Noir.

When Mr. Chauncey M. Depew takes his stand in an Indiana glass factory and points to one workman who gets a hundred and twenty-five dollars per month, and calls attention to the fact that the Belgian competitors of these men receive about seventy-five dollars per month, he undoubtedly supposes he has closed the tariff argument, so far at least as these people are concerned. Without going behind the statements of Mr. Depew, without taking notice of the environment of the Belgian working man; without considering the reduced cost of living in that country,

BALD HEADS!

What is the condition of yours? Is your hair dry, harsh, brittle? Does it split at the ends? Has it a lifeless appearance? Does it fall out when combed or brushed? Is it full of dandruff? Does your scalp itch? Is it dry or in a heated condition? If these are some of your symptoms be warned in time or you will become bald.

Skookum Root Hair Grower

It is what you need. Its production is not an accident, but the result of scientific research. Knowledge of the diseases of the hair and scalp led to the discovery of how to treat them. "Skookum" contains neither minerals nor oils. It is not a dye, but a delicately cooling and refreshing tonic. By stimulating the follicles, it stops falling hair, cures dandruff and grows hair on bald heads.

Keep the scalp clean, healthy, and free from irritating eruptions, by the use of Skookum skin soap. It destroys parasitic insects, which feed on and destroy the hair.

If your druggist cannot supply you send direct to us, and we will forward prepaid, on receipt of price. Grower, $1.00 per bottle; 6 for $5.00. Soap, 50c. per jar; 6 for $2.50.

and the fact that the whole machinery of the Belgian government is exerted to suppress associations of working men for the betterment of their condition—exactly the state of affairs which Mr. Depew is seeking by means of his Pinkertons, Federal Judges and Railroad Attorneys to bring about in this country;—without inquiring to what extent these conditions have placed the working man in the Belgian glass factory at a disadvantage, as compared with his Indiana competitor—we do not see where the distinguished gentlemen have touched the question.

Mr. Depew, as men of his class are apt to do, seems to have overlooked the fact that the tariff and financial questions are moral questions. He seems not to recognize the fact that good business and good politics are but other names for good morals. If a train-robber should capture a million dollars from an express car on one of his railroads, and ask to be acquitted on the ground that his ill-gotten gains had conferred a blessing upon the community in which he resided; that in consequence of his wrong-doing its working men received two dollars where before they had received but one; that its merchants were thrifter and its homes more comfortable—the eminent gentleman would be horrified at such depravity. We should in all probability bear something about that commandment that forbids stealing. For the life of us, we cannot see wherein Mr. Depew's plea in behalf of the Indiana glass manufacturer differs from that of the train robber. The business of the manufacturer of glass does not pay, so he uses the taxing power of the government to make good the money he might otherwise lose in carrying it on, all for the selfish purpose of benefiting the community in which he lives and giving employment to the idle! The train-robber finds a difficulty in making a living, so he holds up the midnight express and compels the public to contribute to his support. He takes, by the use of his Winchester, what he has not earned, just as the manufacturer takes, by means of the law what he has not earned; and the argument that the spending of the money in the community in which each resides is in the nature of a public benefaction, is as legitimate in the one case as the other, and the sincerity of each is entitled to an equal amount of credit.

In considering the question of tariff and finance, Mr. Depew regards only the personal and pecuniary interests of himself and the class to which he belongs. The public, in approaching these issues, cares only for the broad principles of right and wrong involved in them. It was a perception of the immorality of the Protective system and larceny of the single gold standard that gave the Democratic party its victory in '90, and swept it into power in '92. If it is defeated in '94, it will be because those whom it honored with its confidence have betrayed it into the hands of its enemies. It is this aroused moral sense that the plutocracy fears, above every thing else. They fully understand the falsity of the assertion that "nothing can stand before the power of money." The money power has always gone down before the aroused convictions of a nation. This is the teaching of history. Freedom of worship was not inaugurated by the wealthy classes, but its underlying idea prevailed, and we have religious toleration throughout the civilized world as a consequence. The Stwarts had a pie-counter quite as inviting as anything in that line the present administration has to offer, yet they did not succeed in smothering English liberty. Men of money were not enthusiastic in behalf of the cause of American Independence. Thomas Jefferson was a dirty Democrat to the scented plutocrat of his day, yet he was in such close touch with the moral sense of his people that the Tories could do nothing but gnash their teeth at him, which they are continuing to do to the present moment. Andrew Jackson was not well beloved by the money power, but success came to him in spite of its utmost efforts.

It is fear of the quickened conscience of the nation that induces the plutocracy to buy up or control, in some manner; every leading journal in the land it can reach. It is this sense of insecurity that causes Mr. E. L. Godkin, the gold-bug editor of the New York Evening Post, to deplore the evils of universal suffrage. There is no safety to class interests as long as the common people have power in this country. These men are fully aware that American citizens, no matter how humble their station may be, cannot be brought to endorse highway robbery, whether it assume the guise of a law to double the burden of the debtor or to make the producer pay a double price for the necessities of life.
